On July 27th, 2021, ROBLOX announced that they were going to be having an "open beta" of a new in-game currency system that would allow users to buy and sell virtual currency. This feature was added to the site in 2021, but this was the first time that it was open to everyone. This new system came with a "Queueing" system similar to YouTube's order form, which many game creators saw as useful in saving time from waiting for transactions manually. Users can still trade with each other if they wish to do so.[23]

Another disadvantage is that whenever a user updates their account, they are required to update the free robux script as well. Since it is hard for you to keep track of your own updates, you will need someone else to help you do this especially if you are constantly updating your posts several times a day.

If you play "Robloxian life" long enough, you'll notice that the costs really add up. For every point someone wins, the game will cost the player between $3-$10 depending on how many points are needed to win a double prize. Although this is not completely true for all games, it does affect most games so players can expect to spend a lot of money just for some points or winning prizes.

On September 5th 2021, ROBLOX targeted a large amount of its users by adding in-game ads on most games for free. Players would be given an ad in the bottom right corner of their screen with the option of clicking it to see more games. This is very similar to how Facebook and Google ads work, however, the Roblox ads cannot be clicked on and are only meant as a distraction. Users would need to leave the game before seeing the ad again or wait until they lose interest in playing any other game. The new system was rolled out in large parts making users question ROBLOX's integrity as a company.
